Sing prison yesterday. Mrs. Wildrick, who was also indicted, was sentenced with Brooks to seven years and five months by Judge Crain in 1910. It is reported in Auburn, where Mrs. Wildrick is imprisoned, that an order for her parole has been received there.

Edward H. Brooks was in no way connected with Walter Brooks, whose murder in the Glen Island Hotel in 1902 resulted in the arrest of Florence Burns. Accused of the murder she was finally discharged after a hearing before Justice Mayer in Special Sessions Court. She never was indicted for the murder.
